

What Korean dramas are good

---

They discussed Joan's plans. It looked as if things were going to be easy for her. "It's your duty as a respectable citizen, with a wife and family, to stay at home." Joan looked up. There was something in the eyes looking down upon her that seemed to be compelling her. "It was quite good—the matter of it," Joan told her. "All Roads lead to Calvary. The idea is that there comes a time to all of us when we have to choose. Whether, like your friend Carlyle, we will 'give up things' for our faith's sake. Or go for the carriage and pair."
